

All The Rage

THE IMAGE STAFF MUSES ON THE CULTURE OF KEEPING UP APPEARANCES

« Previous Post | All The Rage Home | Next Post »

There's no excuse not to say 'thank you' for those holiday presents

January 11, 2010 | 4:16 pm

I am a stickler for saying "thank you" by sending a personal, handwritten note to the host of a dinner party at which I was a guest or to someone who gave me a nice holiday gift. I admit I can be a little bit of a nag about it to friends and family who have resorted to sending a text full of misspellings and shortcuts when thanking someone. So discovering the online invitation and note sending service of cocodot.com is a nice compromise for people who like the stylish and personal look of stationery, yet the ease and accessibility of technology.

Launched two months ago by a group of friends who are also seasoned veterans of the design and fashion world, the L.A.-based company lets you custom design your own invitations, social stationery and notes – soon to come, wedding invitations. If you don't want to start from scratch, they have plenty of templates that are so stylish and much more appealing than the usual Evite fare.

You'll need a subscription to start sending cocodot e-notes and e-cards, but considering the cost of a stamp, beautiful stationery and painful shift from keyboard to the unfamiliar pen and paper, it might be well worth it. Especially if you're already behind on those holiday thank you notes.

— Melissa Magsaysay

Stationery and thank you notes from www.cocodot.com

Stay connected:

About the Bloggers

Booth Moore
Adam Tschorn
Melissa Magsaysay
Whitney Friedlander

Recent Posts

Shopping Update: Valentine's week short list | February 8, 2010, 1:30 pm »

Missoni's Beverly Hills flagship bows today | February 8, 2010, 11:39 am »

Your morning fashion and beauty report: Google launches fashion line. Elie Tahari to show at Bryant Park. Net-a-porter's revamped bridal boutique | February 8, 2010, 9:00 am »

You Stylist: Style advice to soothe your sartorial woes | February 8, 2010, 8:00 am »

Statuesque: Where to shop when you're super-tall | February 8, 2010, 7:00 am »

Recent Comments

RE: Oscars' best makeup nominees: Why so few? | comment by KGB

RE: Missoni's Beverly Hills flagship bows today | comment by Madeleine Gallay

RE: Shop 'Launch My Line' winner Kathy Rose's Native Rose collection online | comment by chopper

RE: Oscars' best makeup nominees: Why so few? | comment by KGB

RE: Dockers' Super Bowl Sunday ad wants to know who wears the pants | comment by Joseph D'Urso

RE: Dockers' Super Bowl Sunday ad wants to know who wears the pants | comment